

4 July, 2017

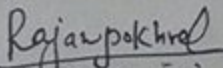

World Federation of Science Journalists
Executive Board
1124, rue Marie-Anne Est – Suite 33
Montréal (QC) H2J 2B7
Canada.

Sub: Recommendation letter.

Chhatra Karki, President of Nepal Forum of Science Journalists (NFSJ), is a well-known personality in the field of country's journalism. Mr. Karki has covered a wide range of issues that often interlink the communities with science in different news media in Nepal. Now, he is the Bureau Chief of Nepal's leading Nagarik National Daily Newspaper.

Besides his own coverage, Mr Karki, being the founder President of the organization, has also played a key role in setting-up the NFSJ in 2014. His dedication and enthusiasm towards science journalism has now become an inspiration to other Nepali journalists, mostly the newcomers who seek to cover science and technology, health, environment, agriculture and other related issues.

Mr Karki's representation in the WFSJ board will certainly be an opportunity to not only the local journalists but also for the region as he has the capability to deal with regional issues related to science journalism. I wish all the best to him.

Rajan Pokhrel

Vice President